Product Description

This PVC film from ABENA's Cater-Line range can be used for storing all foods and for general household use. However, the film should not be used for pure fat, oil and food stored in fat. For these foods, we recommend that you choose, for example, our heavy gold film. PVC film is very stretchable and has very good adhesion. It is therefore often the preferred choice of professional kitchens. PVC is also distinguished by being breathable, which limits condensation. This helps refrigerated food to retain its original texture. This special film can be used at higher temperatures compared to ordinary PVC film.
